

Apples of pineapples

Once upon a time, there were three friends.

They lived in a tropical island, called: the pineapples island.

One day they decided that they want to eat something a little bit different.

One of them

went to find some food, but there were only pineapples everywhere.

He couldn't find something different, so he returned back,

and asked one of the others for help. After this, they went together to find anything, but not pineapples!

At the same time,

the one who stayed

decided to go alone and see if he could do something more quickly.

He started to walk and walk and walk and ... just trying to find anything. Suddenly, he saw a little...  what this thing was. It was red, with a  small leave on top (apple).  He went closer to have a better look. At this point, out of nowhere, another apple appeared. And then another one, and another one, and another one...Every pineapple they touched, it started to multiplied.

The poor man run away, but after this, there were more pineapples than before in the island!
