

BARBURGERS

One day in Cyprus an inventor made a machine that was making barburgers. Something went rong !! The machine exploded and barburgers were thrown in atmosphere.

In a while the barburgers started falling from the sky. The people were very excited. They thought that they will have food for all their life.

A child went to try one of it but unfortunately it was plastic. Then the child thought that they can recycle them.

With all the plastic they made they built a very big playground, and they name it <<Inventor Barburger>>.

And they lived happily ever.
