After adding all the ingredients the boy puts the noodles in the pot to boil. After a while something starts to smell but the boy does not pay attention.

The noodles are ready and the boy sits down to eat and try his own creation. While he is eating, he remembers that first he must clean all the things he used for cooking. Then he can eat.

Now the boy is cleaning all the utensils he used for cooking. As he washes the dishes, he sees all the plants he put in the recipe sprouting. His house is littered with plants. He cannot even walk on the floor.

After the boy woke up he went downstairs to eat his breakfast. As he ate he thought of what he might have done wrong. The mistake he made was that he confused the salt with the magic powder that was in the cupboard.

After he understood what went wrong, the boy decided to make this recipe again without the fairy dust.
